A sample of hidden sites in the onion network sorted by categories

Important Note This collection of screenshots is from TOR hidden websites. Each piece have been sampled algorithmically using a handmade crawler and a base directory, in essence it works the same as Google Search Engine. This mean that each piece have not been carefully reviewed, and even if each website have been processed to filter sensitives images before the screenshot, even if I have spent time to discard high sensitive images, some content may hurt or could be totally illegal. Please, be aware of this warning

DNS

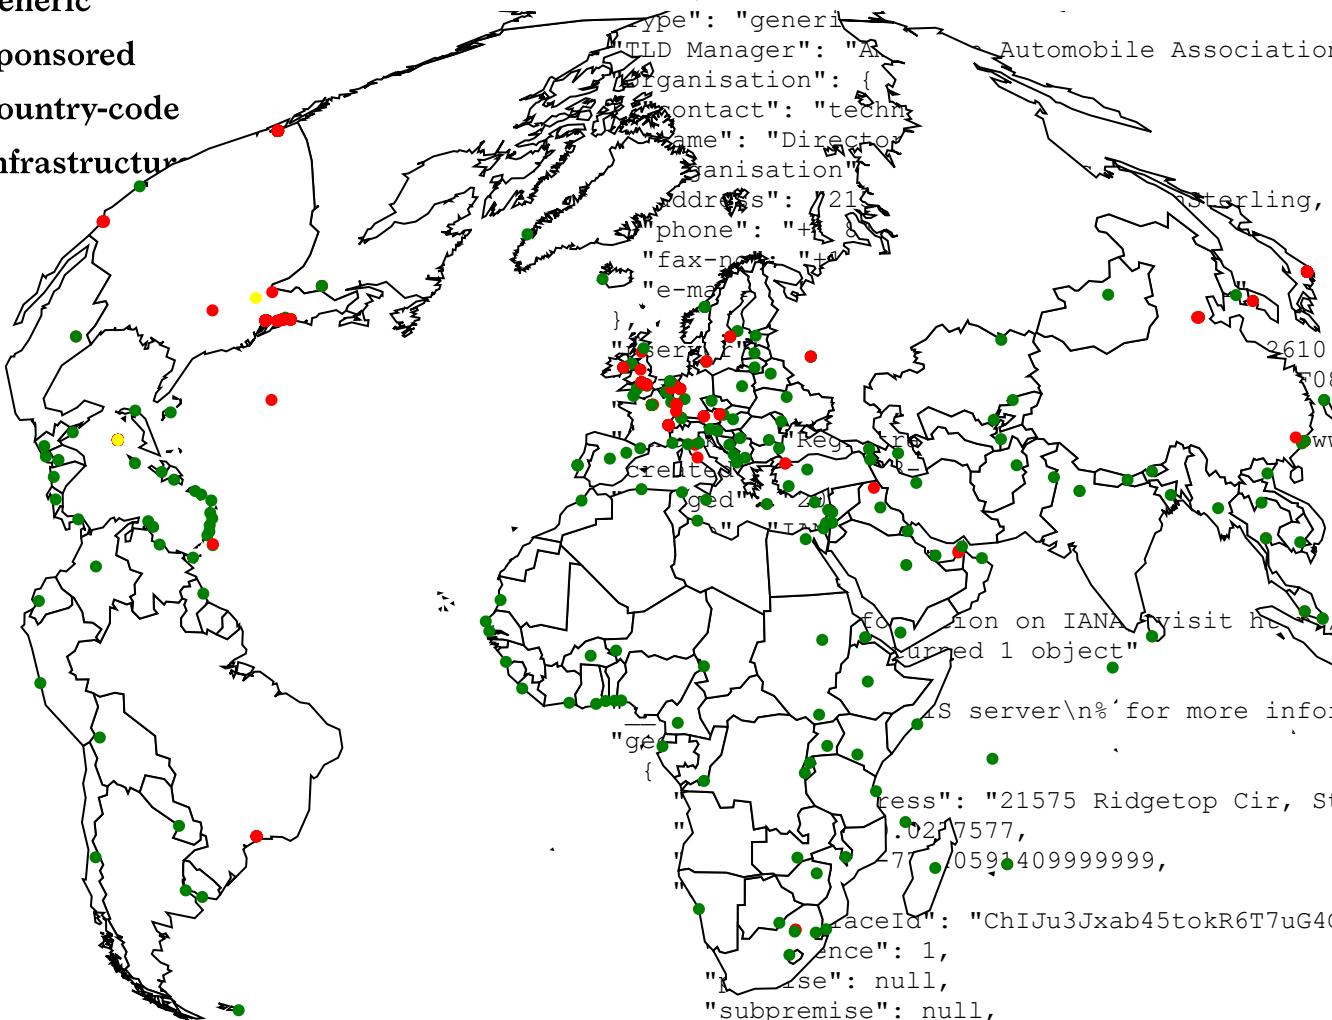

The purpose of the Domain Name System (DNS) is to enable Internet applications and their users to name things that need a globally unique name. The benefit is easily memorizable names for things like web pages or mailboxes, rather than codes. The other benefit is the separation of the name from its location.

A top level domain is the last part of an internet address. There are about 315 country-level codes - such as .nl, .it or .fr for France - and 1239 "generic" TLDs (gTLDs) – such as .com or .org. Only Icann – the internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers – can create new TLDs, whether country, generic, etc..., because only it has the authority to change the "root zone" – the computer file which authorises new TLDs. Attributed TLDs are managed by corporations, governments, associations or Icann itself, they have the power to write and remove from each telephone directory.

Internet

Unlike the telephone network, which for years in most countries was run by a single company, the Internet consists of tens of thousands of interconnected networks run by different agents. Open standards enable this network of networks to communicate.

RFC

The RFC system was invented by Steve Crocker in 1969 to help record unofficial notes on the development of ARPANET.

RFCs have since become official documents of Internet specifications, communications protocols, procedures, and events. According to Crocker, the documents "shape the Internet's inner workings and have played a significant role in its success", but are not well known outside the community

Request for Comments (RFC), in information and communications technology, is a type of text document from the technology community. An RFC document may come from many bodies including from the Internet Engineering Task Force (IETF), the Internet Research Task Force (IRTF), the Internet Architecture Board (IAB), or from independent authors. The RFC system is supported by the Internet Society (ISOC).

TCP/IP

The official name of TCP/IP is the Internet Protocol Suite. TCP/IP provides end-to-end data communication specifying how data should be packetized, addressed, transmitted, routed, and received. It's the fundamental suite of protocols that is shared by all interconnected servers that make the Internet.

TOR

Onion routing was developed in the mid-1990s at the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory to protect U.S. intelligence communications online. It was further developed by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) and patented by the Navy in 1998. After the Naval Research Laboratory released the code for Tor under a free license, The Tor Project was founded as a non-profit organization in 2006, with the financial support of the Electronic Frontier Foundation and several other organizations.

The latest Onion Routing system is freely available and runs on most common operating systems. There is a Tor network of several thousands nodes, processing traffic from hundreds of thousands of unknown users .onion

Onion Routing prevents the transport medium from knowing who is communicating with whom – the network knows only that communication is taking place. In addition, the content of the communication is hidden from eavesdroppers up to the point where the traffic leaves the TOR network. Web services and other services are subject to Distributed Denial of Service and even potential physical attack. But if the logical and physical location of a service is hidden, then it can resist such attacks, even from those with authorized access to the service. Hidden services and clients use rendezvous points to communicate to an .onion TLD

Keybase - Part o scam network

The screenshot shows the Keybase homepage. At the top, there's a search bar with "Search Keybase" and a magnifying glass icon. To its right are buttons for "Install", "Login", a lock icon, a checkmark, and a question mark. Below the header, a blue banner displays the text "New blog post: Addressing Spam on Keybase". The main content area features a section titled "Secure groups and chat for everyone!" with a subtext about communities, friends, schools, and companies. It encourages users to encrypt their data and provides a link to "Get Keybase". Below this is a screenshot of a Keybase interface showing a group chat with messages from "keybase#design" and other users like "max" and "milkassas". On the right side of the homepage, there are sections for "Get started" (with a "Install Keybase" button), "Stats" (showing Keys: 6,702,409, Humans: 1,173,535, Teams: 101,197), and "Some humans on Keybase" with profiles for "dexnax" and "milkassas".

Resistencia digital frente al espionaje de gobiernos y corporaciones

Nuestro objetivo: Esta guía pretende enseñar a navegar seguros. No pretende alentar a la delincuencia. Es un instructivo conceptual. Un manual de Seguridad Personal. Saber un poco más, nunca está de más.

Creemos que la libertad de expresión tiene que ser un derecho verdadero. El anonimato y la privacidad una garantía. Lamentablemente hay gente que se aprovecha de eso para hacer el mal. La idea de ésto, es que sea usado contra los gobiernos y grandes corporaciones. Ese es nuestro objetivo. El Hacktivismo. Luchar por nuestros derechos en la red.

The Shroud

The Shroud

We are a highly elusive organization that considers the veil of anonymity to be the most treasured sacrament of the individual. It is held above all else because without the power to be one's self, without the power to speak one's mind freely, we are nothing but mere slaves to political correctness and the powers that be. The powers that mould the human condition into a weapon, the power that vanquish our individualism with blinding light. Luminosity burns out free will, creativity, and any hope of liberty. Only in the Darkness can we thrive as a species. Only in the Darkness can we empower, unite, and overthrow the establishment who wish nothing but to stamp out the last remaining sliver of humanity by

Hey there,

If you came here from chchchiajkh7jqci.onion and believed any of it, please note that you are a gullible dumbass.

I (wowaname) have made it no secret who I am online; I can be found on clearnet as well as Tor and I2P. This has always been the case. I spend far more time on clearnet in fact, and I only operate hidden services and participate in Tor communities because I believe in freedom of speech and expression, and the power that anonymity/privacy gives the average user to express that freedom.

As many of you know, Hidden Answers (the largest site operated by Chen Hosting to date) is still up and running, as are all the other unnamed personal and miscellaneous sites that I operate pro-bono at this point.
I do not get paid directly from hosting by many customers; hopefully this will change and I can make enough to maintain server costs. I only wish I could earn anywhere close to 200 BTC off hidden service hosting.
I've hardly earned one bitcoin off it all.

This troll / idiot operating chchchiajkh7jqci.onion either hates me enough to claim that I'm scamming others, or just wants to start shit and fish for a reaction, but in any case they know absolutely nothing about me. It's impressive, actually, given how little I try to hide my true self online. I'm a very honest person and I have made best efforts to disallow scams and material I personally object. And I most certainly do not misspell "doxed" -- it's one X.

My personal website is and has always been <<https://wowana.me/>>, it has had a hidden service at <<http://opalrf4mznlfmag.onion/>> and <<http://opal.i2p/>> for years (and I have no idea if the I2P link actually works at any given time, since it's so unstable). My contact and PGP information is and has always been there; lately I have also had a Keybase profile (at <<https://keybase.io/opal>> or <<http://fncuwbiisyh6ak3i.onion/opal>>) to make it easier to verify me.
And my current PGP key is signed by my previous one before I retimed it.

Digital Thrift Shop - Best

digital stuff

network

The screenshot shows the homepage of the Digital Thrift Shop. The header features the shop's name and a subtext "Best digital stuff in Tor network!". A search bar is at the top right. The main navigation includes "Shop", "Announcements", "About", "Terms and conditions", a cart icon showing "$0.00 0 items", and user links for "My account" and "Help". Below the navigation is a "Shop" section with five categories: "Apps (14)" (represented by a black terminal icon), "Books (47)" (represented by three books), "Botnets (3)" (represented by a globe with red connections), "Data Leak (3)" (represented by a padlock icon), and "Databases (24)" (represented by a server icon with a green arrow). To the right is a "Product categories" sidebar with links like "Apps", "Books", "Botnets", etc., each with a count in parentheses.

The screenshot shows a news article from 'WAZ' (Westdeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung) about the 'Afghanistan Papers'. The headline reads: 'Aktuell: Das Verteidigungsministerium will die Afghanistan-Papiere aus dem Internet löschen.' The article discusses the secret documents from the German military's mission in Afghanistan, which have been leaked. It mentions that these documents were used to train soldiers and are now being deleted by the ministry. The text also notes that the documents describe operations worldwide, including in Afghanistan.

Mehr Informationen

Aktuell: Das Verteidigungsministerium will die Afghanistan-Papiere aus dem Internet löschen.

Die Afghanistan Papiere

Jahrelang wurde der deutschen Öffentlichkeit der Krieg in Afghanistan als Friedenmission verkauft. Tatsächlich aber sind die deutschen Soldaten in Afghanistan mitten in einem Krieg, der kaum noch zu gewinnen ist. Dabei riskieren sie ihr Leben im Auftrag des deutschen Bundestages für einen korrupten Staat, dessen Herrscher in Drogenmachienschaften verwickelt sind.

Wir veröffentlichen hier einige tausend Seiten aus den Einsatzberichten der Bundeswehr. Diese so genannten „Unterrichtungen des Parlaments“ sind „VS – nur für den Dienstgebrauch“ gestempelt. Das ist die niedrigste von vier Geheimhaltungsstufen der Bundesrepublik. Sie beschreiben alle Einsätze der Bundeswehr in der ganzen Welt - vor allem in Afghanistan.

Die Berichte wurden uns zugespielt; sie liegen teilweise nur in schlechter Qualität vor – deswegen brauchen wir Ihre Hilfe.
